Two Abagold employees received accolades at the recent AgriSETA annual excellence awards ceremony.

Faniswa Mtebele was nominated for the best adult basic education and training pupil, and Sihle Dlamini for best intern.

Both nominees were selected as finalists in their respective categories and were flown to Johannesburg to attend a gala evening at the OR Tambo Hotel.

Faniswa went on to win the prize for best performing pupil in the adult education and training category. She started with the programme in 2008 and is currently busy with English communication level 4; she's also studying part-time through Boland College.

Sihle Dlamini was the first intern at Abagold and also the first student at Elsenberg to complete the national diploma for animal production in aquaculture. He was awarded the funner-up prize in the best intern category.
